

Beijing Information Science and Technology University (Beijing-China)

Website	http://english.bistu.edu.cn/
Contact person	Zhu Jing (zhujing@bistu.edu.cn)
Brief description of the University	BISTU made its appearance through the merger of Beijing Institute of Machinery (BIM) and Beijing Institute of Information (BIT) in 2008. BISTU alumni make their contributions and achievements in all industries of the world. The University distinguishes itself with featured education in 36 undergraduate programs, covering the disciplines of engineering, management, science, economics, and literature. BISTU establishes funding projects to support the exchange programs for the school's students and its faculty members. For its international students, BISTU has launched diversified short-term exchange programs and social practice programs during winter and summer vacations. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • BISTU provides international students with two kinds of programs: Chinese Language Programs and Degree Programs. The Chinese Language Program of BISTU includes short-term Chinese Language training and training that leads to a degree in Chinese Language. BISTU's Degree Program provides international students with degrees in the undergraduate and postgraduate majors of the University. Currently, the Degree Programs for international students are carried out mainly in the disciplines of economics, management and information management.
Facts about Beijing	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You can visit the Great Wall there. • Beijing's Forbidden City is the largest palace in the world. • Beijing was the capital of 6 notable dynasties and governments. • Beijing was the 16th name given to the city.

