

Ireland is green!

Because it rains a lot, nature proliferates! It was so amazing! So green. I took so many pictures of the forest and mountains in Ireland. There is a lot to do there. City-viewing. Hiking. Cinemas. We saw Joker and Frozen II together with my international friends in Clonmel. That tiny town has its own library, museum, and cinema.

The college provided us professional camera whenever we needed it. After asking our lecturer, we could use them outside of the campus as well, which was really amazing, because we couldn't do something like this here in Hungary. The LIT gave us all the tools we didn't have. If a student doesn't have a drawing tablet, he or she could rent one from the school for free for the whole year.

We had a lot of field trips during the Media Writing classes so we could experience different things from first hand. We went hiking, visited museums and cafes. So it was a kinda alternative but refreshing method.
